NTCA Expo held at the Walt Disney World Dolphin Hotel and Convention Center

February 9, 2007

Orlando, FL – SDT presented their ever expanding infrastructure services at the NTCA Expo at the Walt Disney World Dolphin Hotel and Convention Center where the members gathered for a week of meetings, presentations and exhibitions. The National Telecommunications Cooperative Association, formed in 1954, has been the voice of rural telecommunication's carriers connecting the heartland of America to the world.

These locally owned, community-based companies are actively migrating their telecom networks to next generation networks, providing broadband and advanced IP services, including ISP, mobile & fixed wireless, IPTV/TelcoTV using IP/ATM, xDSL, Wi-Fi, CDMA, GSM, FTTx, Ethernet and other advanced technologies.

SDT, headquartered in Brookhaven, MS was the only company present that offered construction capabilities along with engineering, technical, installation and managed services. The exhibit was a hit and the hometown values of SDT were warmly welcomed by the NTCA members. The drawing for a free iPod was held and won by Gary Patrick with MetroOne Telecommunications.
